

MERGER & ACQUISITION CONSULTANT

Building trust at the forefront

Trapeze Switzerland GmbH (www.trapezegroup.de) is part of globally-active Volaris Group and is synonymous with innovative software solutions in public transport. The objective is to find companies whose market position coincides with the strategic orientation of the group and subsequently take them over and strengthen them. The long-term development and integration into the company network stands in the foreground, in order to bring about joint success.

Your challenge: To identify opportunities in the European market – software companies that are thinking about their future and are open to discussion. To make contact with interested decision-makers, gain their trust and inspire them to be ready to examine in detail the further development of their own company with the Volaris Group.

Talent and skills required: The multifaceted nature of the task is an opportunity for a sales manager from a B2B software background or someone who already has merger and acquisition experience. Your ability to act with care, make contacts and pursue goals with persistence is the key to success. All of this is based on a firm foundation of business and technical understanding. German/English business fluent.

Prospects: An extraordinary opportunity to set the pace in an extremely motivated, dynamic environment and become part of a forward-looking, innovative corporate group. Extensive know-how, professionalism and a strong forward-thinking orientation characterise this position. Attractive, performance-related employment conditions. Place of work: Neuhausen am Rheinfall (Switzerland).

We look forward to your application. For further details, we are happy to help you on +41 (0)52 203 00 10. Please send your completed application documents, with the reference number ENR1885, to bewerbungen@nietlispach.com.
